In the words of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow “Great is the art of beginning, but greater is the art of ending.” Goodbyes are always difficult, especially with whom we spend most of our time. However, in order to bring a closure for the students graduating this year, Reena Mehta College of Arts, Science, Commerce and Management Studies organized farewell for the final year students of all the streams on 31st March 2022. It was a pleasure to see students dressed as per the theme of “Angels and Demons”. They were also felicitated for their outstanding performances and involvement in academics as well as in co-curricular activities. Students rocked the floor with their moves and grooves alongside enjoying the music, games and refreshments organized by the college. Filled with a heavy heart as well as the joy and enthusiasm for the coming future, students departed from college with a memento to reminisce their memories. We can sum-up the sentiments of this Farewell through a quote by T.S. Eliot that “What we call the beginning is often the end. And to make an end is to make a beginning. The end is where we start from.”
